

Saint Joseph Hospital Obstetrics and Gynecology Residency Medical Student Acting Internships

Acting Internships

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology welcomes medical students from accredited U.S. or Canadian medical schools who are strongly considering OB/GYN as a career. The rotations are four weeks long and include both inpatient and outpatient care. Students work closely with house staff to ensure sufficient patient contact. Students attend all OB/GYN educational conferences.

We will accept applications starting on January 2 through May 1 and will alert all students of their application status before June 1. Rotations begin end of June/early July through end of January.

We accept applications through the VSLO program. Please contact us directly if you have any barriers to applying through this program. We will also accept applications emailed to the program directly. Download the Clerkship Application on our website and email completed applications to Jennifer.Libra@imail.org.

Applicants must have completed Part 1 of the USMLE or COMLEX and must have completed a third year Obstetrics and Gynecology rotation.

For selected students with financial barriers to pursuing away rotations, our program offers a scholarship which reimburses costs of housing and transportation. We encourage applicants from low-income backgrounds, first-generation college graduates, applications with additional language proficiency, and those who have demonstrated a commitment to service and advocacy for marginalized patient populations, and those with limited access to healthcare. All are welcome to apply by submitting a short paragraph essay (<200 words).

Preference for acting internships is given to candidates with:

- Demonstrated commitment to caring for underserved populations
- Demonstrated commitment to advocacy and leadership
- Spanish language proficiency

Rotations Offered:

- Obstetrics
- Gynecology
- Ambulatory
